DEFINITION: This award is for the best publically accessible report issued in the eligible year by organisations, covering their environmental, social and economic performance. Typically, this would be a report that conforms to the norms of a Global Reporting Initiative (GRI) report.

This award will be judged on the following criteria:

- Integration of sustainability: How has sustainability reporting been integrated? Including sustainability as part of an organisation's regular agenda, policies, roles, strategy and governance structure is critical. Submissions need to demonstrate that sustainability activities are not merely one off or discretionary.
- Plan/Do/Review cycle: Demonstrate how the sustainability report was planned, developed and reviewed. Keeping track of the plans and checking the results against objectives/targets, described in action plans, is key to truly sustainable achievements.
- Impact: All submissions need to address what sustainability impact was achieved. Sustainable performance must drive real impact.
- Recognition: How was the sustainability report recognised/celebrated internally/externally? Acknowledging that environmental and social aspects are becoming important concerns to an organisation makes each sustainable activity more embedded.
- Communication and engagement: Submissions must demonstrate that engagement and communication that supported the sustainability report took place. Promoting transparency to all stakeholders through internal/external engagement & communication is key to realise the benefits from sustainable actions.
